

Frederick George Eugene Mason
1891 – 1916

Civilian Research

Field Name	Field Data	Source of data
Casualty Name	Frederick George Eugene Mason	CWGC and 1911 census for middle names as well as GRO
Date of Birth	1891	CWGC; also Buckinghamshire Remembers suggests he was born in Stoke Newington – this is confirmed by 1901 & 1911 censuses. Specifically Haringay in the 1901 census.
Date of Death (from Spreadsheet)	2/10/1916	CWGC
Age at death (from Spreadsheet)	25	CWGC
Marital Status	Probably unmarried	He is not married in the 1911 census and a wife is not mentioned on the CWGC website
Children (if any)
Occupation prior to Call up	Electrical Engineer on his “own account” ie doesn’t say he was working for anyone else	1911 Census on FMP 27/6/2026 – emailed the IEE to see if he was a member as they have an index (not online) of their members who died in the war.

Parents	Walter M and Lizzie Isabel Mason	CWGC
Listed Address(s)	The Croft, Curzon Avenue, Beaconsfield	CWGC
Parents /Fathers occupation	Accountant
Brothers and Sisters	Ethel, Dorothy, Harold, John plus Gladys who appears on 1911 census In 1911 the family were living in Beaconsfield.	1901 Census on FMP including Frederick himself. Family living in Southgate. 1911 Census on FMP Frederick is not on 1911 census with rest of family – he was a visitor with Frederick Pitcher at Burnham on Crouch, Essex and states he was born in Stoke Newington
Years at John Lyon School
University (if any)
Obituary/Memorials	Beaconsfield War Memorial	https://buckinghamshireremembers.org.uk/memorials/p244.htm and https://buckinghamshireremembers.org.uk/php_scripts/bksidget.php?id=4817 and https://memorials.iwm.org.uk/name/286022
Additional sources of data		Investigate the IEE WW1 casualties list DONE.. 27/6/2026 https://www.theiet.org/membership/library-and-archives/the-iet-archives/archives-highlights/the-first-world-war-roll-of-honour https://www.theiet.org/about/contact-us

Military Research

JLS WWI RoH	MASON F.G.E.
CWGC Reference	https://www.cwgc.org/find-war-dead/casualty/805201/mason,-frederick-g./
Age	25
DoD	02-Oct-16
Rank	Rfn
Regiment	London Regiment (Queen's Westminster Rifles) 1st/16th Bn
Grave	THIEPVAL MEMORIAL
Location	Somme, France
Military details	Son of Walter M. and Lizzie Isabel Mason, of The Croft, Curzon Avenue, Beaconsfield. Enlisted Sept., 1914. According to CWGC, he also served at Gallipoli and in Egypt. Rifleman Frederick George Mason (Service Number 8789) of the 1/16th (County of London) Battalion, London Regiment (Queen Victoria's Rifles) was killed in action on October 2, 1916, at the age of 25. He was killed on the Western Front in the Somme valley of northern France. Specifically, his battalion was fighting in the heavily fortified sector near the villages of Flers and Transloy during the late stages of the massive, months-long Battle of the Somme. Rifleman Mason was killed in action during a brutal tactical phase of the Somme offensive. Following the famous mid-September capture of Flers (where tanks were used for the first time), the Queen Victoria's Rifles were tasked with holding, consolidating, and pushing forward through heavily shelled, muddy terrain under continuous German artillery counter-bombardment and machine-gun fire. He was killed instantly on the battlefield by either shrapnel from an incoming artillery barrage or a sniper's bullet. Because his remains were lost or could not be identified amid the constant churning of the Somme battlefields, he has no known physical grave. He is permanently commemorated by name on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing of the Somme in France (Pier and Face 13C). Local Tribute: Back home, he is also honored on the Beaconsfield War Memorial in Buckinghamshire. He was the son of Walter and Lizzie Isabel Mason of Curzon Avenue, Beaconsfield.

Story of Sacrifice

Frederick George Eugene Mason (1891 – 1916)

Frederick Eugene Mason worked as an electrical engineer before enlisting in 1914 and serving with the Queen Victoria's Rifles at Gallipoli, Egypt and on the Western Front.

He was killed aged 25 during the Battle of the Somme on 2 October 1916, and having no known grave, is commemorated on the Thiepval Memorial and Beaconsfield War Memorial

Civilian Life

Frederick was born in Stoke Newington in 1891. He was the son of Walter and Lizzie Mason, and had several siblings, including Ethel, Dorothy, Harold, John and Gladys. The family lived in Southgate in 1901 and later in Beaconsfield. By 1911, Frederick was working as an electrical engineer on his own account. At the time of the 1911 census, he was recorded as a visitor at Burnham-on-Crouch, Essex.

Military Life

Frederick enlisted in September 1914 and served with the 1st/16th Battalion, London Regiment, the Queen Victoria's Rifles, as a Rifleman, service number 8789. His wartime service included Gallipoli and Egypt before he was transferred to the Western Front.

In 1916, Mason was serving with his battalion during the Battle of the Somme in northern France. On 2 October, the Queen Victoria's Rifles were fighting in the heavily contested area around Flers and Transloy. The battalion was operating in muddy, heavily shelled ground and was subjected to German artillery and machine-gun fire. Mason was killed in action during the fighting at the age of 25. The research records state that he was killed on the battlefield, either by shrapnel from an artillery barrage or a sniper's bullet. Because his remains were lost or could not be identified amid the constant churning of the Somme battlefields, he has no known physical grave.

Frederick is commemorated on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing of the Somme in France, and his name also appears on the Beaconsfield War Memorial.

Notes

Enlisted Sept., 1914. Also served at Gallipoli and in Egypt. Source: CWGC

Checked For Evermore – no listing

Likely birth. Buckinghamshire Remembers suggests he was born in Stoke Newington in 1891 (Place confirmed by 1901 & 1911 Censuses). There is a birth of Frederick George Eugene Mason born Dec Qtr 1891 and registered in the Hackney registration district. MMN is Schoerle