Second Lieutenant Eric De Wilde Green of the 1st Battalion, The Queen's (Royal West Surrey Regiment) died on Monday, April 15, 1918, at the age of 19. He did not die instantly on the battlefield; records show he was severely wounded in action and died of his wounds two days later at a military base hospital. He is buried at Boulogne Eastern Cemetery in northern France (Grave Reference: VII. B. 4). In April 1918, the 1st Battalion was heavily engaged in northwestern France trying to halt the massive German Spring Offensive (specifically the Battle of the Lys / Lys Offensive). Based on his date of wounding (April 13, 1918), his battalion was holding defensive lines in the Flanders sector, fighting intensely to prevent a German breakthrough toward the critical rail hubs. After being struck, he was evacuated down the casualty medical line to the coastal town of Boulogne-sur-Mer, which served as a massive Allied hospital hub, where he succumbed to his injuries. Next-of-kin records from the Commonwealth War Graves Commission list his family background as follows: He was the son of Charles Henry De Wilde Green and Isabel Clara Green. Home Address: His family lived at 58, Station Rd., Harrow, Middlesex (Greater London). Personal Tribute: His parents chose a poignant quote from Percy Bysshe Shelley's poem Adonais for his headstone inscription: "Peace, he is not dead he hath awakened from the dream of life." A Story of Sacrifice

Eric de Wilde Green (1898 – 1918)

Eric de Wilde Green was born in St Pancras in 1898, the son of Charles Henry De Wilde Green and Isabel Clara Green. He grew up at Eastcourt, 58 Station Road, Harrow, with his elder brother Geoffrey and younger brother Bernard.

Civilian Life

Before military service, Eric's life was centred on education, family and music. As a young boy he attended Alpha School, a prep school on Hindes Road, Harrow, where he developed a talent for the piano alongside his older brother Geoffrey. At the school's annual Prize Distribution in January 1910, the two brothers performed a pianoforte duet before parents and visitors. During the same evening, both Geoffrey and Eric received medals recognising their help, interest and perseverance in school life. The event reflected the broad education encouraged by the school, combining music, art, academic study and physical exercise.

Eric's later education is associated with both Harrow County School and John Lyon School. The research records him in the John Lyon School First World War Roll of Honour and notes his commemoration on both the John Lyon School memorial plaque and sundial. It also records his name in the University of London's Roll of Honour. In addition, he appears in the University of London Matriculation examination lists of September 1914 while attending Harrow County School. The research notes acknowledge that the precise relationship between his attendance at John Lyon School and Harrow County School remains unresolved.

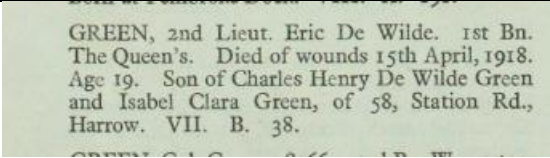

Military Life

Shortly after leaving school, Eric joined the British Army and was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the 1st Battalion, The Queen's (Royal West Surrey Regiment). By April 1918 his battalion was engaged in the fighting against the German Spring Offensive in Flanders. He was wounded in action on 13 April 1918 and evacuated through the military medical system to Boulogne-sur-Mer, where he died of his wounds on 15 April 1918 at the age of nineteen. He was buried in Boulogne Eastern Cemetery.

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission records him as the son of Charles Henry De Wilde Green and Isabel Clara Green of 58 Station Road, Harrow. His parents chose for his headstone the inscription from Percy Bysshe Shelley's Adonais:

"Peace, he is not dead he hath awakened from the dream of life."

PRIZE DISTRIBUTION.

ALPHA SCHOOL.

The entertainment, prize distribution and exhibition of pupils' work of Alpha School was held on Tuesday evening in the Gayton Rooms. Despite the turmoil of election, there were a good number of parents and visitors present, and the evening passed off very pleasantly and successfully. As on previous occasions, a feature of this annual function was the exhibition of work, in which the principle of Mr. Kirby Wynne is clearly defined, of giving to the pupils a varied knowledge, destined to be of use later on in the practical walks of life. The artistic specimens shown were remarkable considering the ages of the pupils; and among those specially to be commended were Phyllis Hinge, who showed fine heads and figures and an excellent original all-over pattern; Lily Allen, Marjorie Sanderson, Emmie Lane and Edgar Hart, the latter showing specially a crayon drawing on china. In dainty needlework, Madge Norman, Irene Cooper, Ethel Price, Doris Sanderson and Florence Cullington were highly commended.

The programme was very lengthy, but there were no waits, so that the end was reached in good time. In pianoforte playing, Beryl Smee, Emmie Lane and Ethel Price greatly distinguished themselves, and the Choral Class sang part-songs excellently. Another item which was greatly enjoyed was the graceful minuet arranged by Miss Brown-Constable, and danced by the Misses Ethel Price, F. Cullington, M. Goshawk, M. Sanderson, D. Sanderson, I. Price, M. Norman and E. Lane. The girls' dresses were made by the children themselves. There were two little plays, one quite up-to-date, "Women's Rights," in which the principal characters were taken by Gerald Beet, M. Sanderson and Arthur Dew, while M. Goshawk, M. Norman, E. Lane, Margaret Holdom, E. Price and P. Hinge were members of the "Women's Rights Committee." The other play was an arrangement by Mr. Wynne of "The Rehearsal," in which recitations were given by the Misses G. Barnes, N. Allen, B. Smee and D. Sanderson, and the Masters T. Sefton, M. Neal, A. Dare, R. Holdom, L. Harris, D. Mullins and J. Beet. The dance "Grazianna" (arranged by Miss Brown-Constable) was danced by the Misses Sanderson, F. Cullington, B. Smee, G. Horn, I. Price and Doris Joyce. The other interesting items were pianoforte solos and duets by Miss Gladys Horne, Master Geoffrey Green, Miss Marjorie Sanderson, Miss Lily Allen, Miss Mabel Goshawk and the Misses Evelyn and Doris Ploewman; songs by Miss Sanderson and Miss Lily Allen; duets by Masters Geoffrey and Eric Green, and the Misses Lily Allen and M. Sanderson; some capital exercises by the gymnasium class, the Misses Gracie Barnes and E. Lane, and Masters A. Drew, G. Beet, J. Beet, T. Sefton and L. Harris, and a musical drill.

Prizes were given by Mrs. Price, Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Loader, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Meare, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Hunge, Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. and Miss Brown-Constable, Mr. Wynne, Mr. Norman, and Mr. Finley.

Mr. Wynne reported the continued progress of the School, and emphasised the necessity for science, mathematical and commercial training, as well as the artistic side—drawing, painting and music. He also appealed for support of the gymnasium and games as being necessary factors in the equipment of the pupils.

Mrs. Joyce being detained, Mrs. Bendley Beatty, after being presented with a bouquet of pink carnations and lilies, presented the following prizes amid applause:—

Medal winners (awarded to past or present pupil for general help, interest, and perseverance in school affairs, or consideration for others.—Ethel Price, Sidney Crundall, Geoffrey Green, Eric Green, Florence Cullington and Mabel Goshawk. Science and general knowledge.—Gerald Beet.

Music, seniors.—Ethel Price; (juniors)—Beryl Smee, Scale, seniors.—Mabel Goshawk; (juniors)—Evelyn Ploewman.

Geography (girls).—Florence Cullington; (boys): Gerald Beet and Alan Dare.

Drawing.—Phyllis Hinge.

Dancing (seniors).—Florence Cullington (passed to Ethel Price). Juniors.—Gladys Horne.

Sewing.—Madge Norman, Doris Sanderson and Irene Brown-Cooper.

Singing.—Marjorie Sanderson.

French.—Gracie Barnes.

Drilling.—Florence Cullington (passed to Doris Sanderson) and Arthur Dew (passed to Ivy Price).

Arithmetic.—Gerald Beet (passed to Arthur Dew).

Gymnasium.—Arthur Dew.

Hockey.—Emmie Lane and Griffith Price.

Class prizes.—Florence Cullington, Reginald Holdom, Dickie Mullins and Eric Jeeves.

Councillor S. W. Hunt proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Beatty, and endorsed the words of Mr. Wynne: Mr. G. Beet seconded, and the thanks being carried, an enjoyable school function came to a close.

Councillor S. W. Jones proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Beatty, and endorsed the words of Mr. Wynne. Mr. G. Beet seconded, and the thanks being carried, an enjoyable school function came to a close.

This article confirms that Geoffrey Green and Eric Green were both accomplished young pianists, performing a pianoforte duet together at the Alpha School prize distribution in January 1910. It also shows they were highly regarded within the school, with both boys receiving Medal Winners' awards for their help, interest, and perseverance.

(*)The January 1910 United Kingdom general election was held from 15 January to 10 February 1910 to elect all 670 members of the House of Commons. Called amid a constitutional crisis after the Conservative-dominated House of Lords rejected the People's Budget, the Liberal government, seeking a mandate, lost their majority.

The result was a hung parliament: Arthur Balfour's Conservatives and their Liberal Unionist allies won the most votes, but Asquith's Liberals secured the most seats, edging out the Conservatives by two. With Irish Parliamentary Party support, Asquith remained in power. Another election followed in December.

Eric is listed in the University of London Matriculation list for Sept 1914 and is listed under exams taken at Harrow County School

This is confusing – he seems to have gone to Harrow High School (known as the County School) from 1911 to 1915 so when did he go to John Lyon School?

I found the following on the High School website <https://www.harrowhigh.com/news/?pid=3&nid=1&storyid=90>

Harrow High School remembers those who have lost their lives in conflicts around the world.

2022 marks 101 years since the nation's collective Remembrance traditions were first brought together. On 18 November, our whole school community paused to remember all those who have tragically lost their lives serving our country.

Harrow High School Army Cadet helped mark the occasion with a guard of honour, while the last post was played and wreaths were laid at the War Memorial inside the school.

We were joined - as in previous years - by Harrow High School alumni. One 'old boy' Mr Richard Green whose family attended Harrow County School (as Harrow High School was known then) shared with us the service history of his uncle Eric De Wilde Green. Eric attended Harrow County School from 1911 to 1915. He joined the British Army shortly after leaving school but died of wounds on 15 April 1918. Eric's death is recorded on the school's War Memorial. Yet he's on the UofLondon Roll of Honour (see above)
